CLAIM 1 IS PRESENTED FOR EXAMINATION

OBJECTION

The application is objected to because applicants failure to furnish a copy of the printed patent, in double column form, as required under 37 CFR 1.173 (a) (1). See MPEP 1410. The application has been examined as submitted in the single column form.

CLAIMS REJECTION UNDER 35 USC 251

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 251 as being broadened in a reissue application filed outside the two year statutory period. Claim 1 as drawn claims a method of increasing plasma HDL levels in a mammal which comprises administering all-trans retinoic acid in a pharmacologic amount effective to increase said plasma HDL levels. This application is a Reissue Application of U.S. Patent 5,219,888 ('888) which issued on June 15, 1993. The subject application was filed on October 21, 1998. In Interference No. 103,931 the decision of September 20, 2002 denied the motion to grant this reissue application the filing date of the original patent since it decided at page 7 that all trans-retinoic acid is generic and was a different invention than 9-cis retinoic acid. Therefore, this application has the filing date of October 21, 1998 which is more than 2 years after the issue date and is outside the statutory period.

The difference between the applicants' claim and claim 1 of '888 is the insertion of a hyphen (-) between the words "all" and "trans". The claims are interpreted in their broadest meaning. The examiner defines claim 1 as reading on all, i.e., every one of the trans retinoic acids in a pharmacologic effective amount to increase plasma HDL levels. A claim is broader in scope than the original claims if it contains within its scope any conceivable product or process which would have infringed the original patent. A claim is broadened if it is broader in any one respect even though it may be narrower in other respects.

Claim 1 is rejected since the application was filed beyond the statutory period and it is broader than original claim 1 of Applicants' '888 patent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

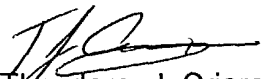

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. There is a lack of definition in the specification what is the meaning of "all-trans-retinoic acid" as it compares to the definition of "all trans-retinoic acid"

Draft

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 251 as being broadened in a reissue application filed outside the two year statutory period. Claim 1 as drawn claims a method of increasing plasma HDL levels in a mammal which comprises administering all-trans retinoic acid in a pharmacologic amount effective to increase said plasma HDL levels. This application is a ^{reissue} continuation of U.S. Patent 5,219,888 ('888) which issued on June 15, 1993. The subject application was filed on October 21, 1998. In Interference No. 103,931 the decision of September 20, 2002 denied the motion to grant this reissue application the filing date of the original patent since it decided at page 7 that all trans-retinoic acid is generic and was a different invention than 9-cis retinoic acid. Therefore, this application has the filing date of October 21, 1998 which is more than 2 years after the issue date and is outside the statutory period.

The difference between the applicants' claim and claim 1 of '888 is the insertion of a hyphen (-) between the words "all" and "trans". The claims are interpreted in their broadest meaning. The examiner defines claim 1 as reading on all, i.e., every one of the trans retinoic acids in a pharmacologic effective amount to increase plasma HDL levels. A claim is broader in scope than the original claims if it contains within its scope any conceivable product or process which would have infringed the original patent. A claim is broadened if it is broader in any one respect even though it may be narrower in other respects.

Claim 1 is rejected since the application was filed beyond the statutory period and it is broader than original claim 1 of Applicants' '888 patent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
